Dear Mr. Chan:

The National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) has reviewed your request accepted July 1, 2013. This request was for an extension of approval to TC-84A-4653 to add a private label version of the Shanghai Gangkai Purifying Products N95 filtering facepiece air purifying respirator (APR) model GIKO 1200H for Honeywell Safety Products of Shanghai, China, as the model H801, reference the assembly matrix 1200H001aAMe.xls, revision E.

This request is granted. Approvals are granted only for documentation written in the English language. It is the manufacturer's responsibility to correctly translate materials desired in languages other than English.

The CD enclosed with this letter contains the final respirator approval label. The abbreviated label has been accepted as submitted. The cautions and limitations which apply to this approval are on the approval label. Only those assemblies affected by this request, or where new approval numbers are assigned, apply to this approval action. Production approval labels cannot include information on unapproved configurations.

The approved assembly consists of the parts as listed on the approval label and the assembly matrix. Parts are to be marked with the numbers indicated on the approval label in a legible and permanent manner (marking cannot be removed without evidence of its previous presence).

The manufacturer is responsible for properly packaging, labeling, and controlling the respirators produced under this private label approval. At a minimum, the items that must be controlled are the approved user instructions, all approval labeling, all approved packaging, use claims, marketing materials, and the respirator design and construction details. Any change to this NIOSH-approved respirator or to the approval documentation without prior notification and approval is a violation of this approval and renders this certification as invalid.

No changes may be made to any respirators and accompanying documentation without prior written approval of NIOSH. Requests for changes must be submitted to NIOSH and a modification of this approval must be granted before changes are made.

Sincerely yours,
